

The White House said Monday that Elon Musk is technically not part of the Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE), even though the tech billionaire is said to be leading its sweeping cost-cutting efforts.

Musk is an employee of the “White House Office” and serves as senior adviser to the president, according to a court filing from Joshua Fisher, director of the White House Office of Administration.

---

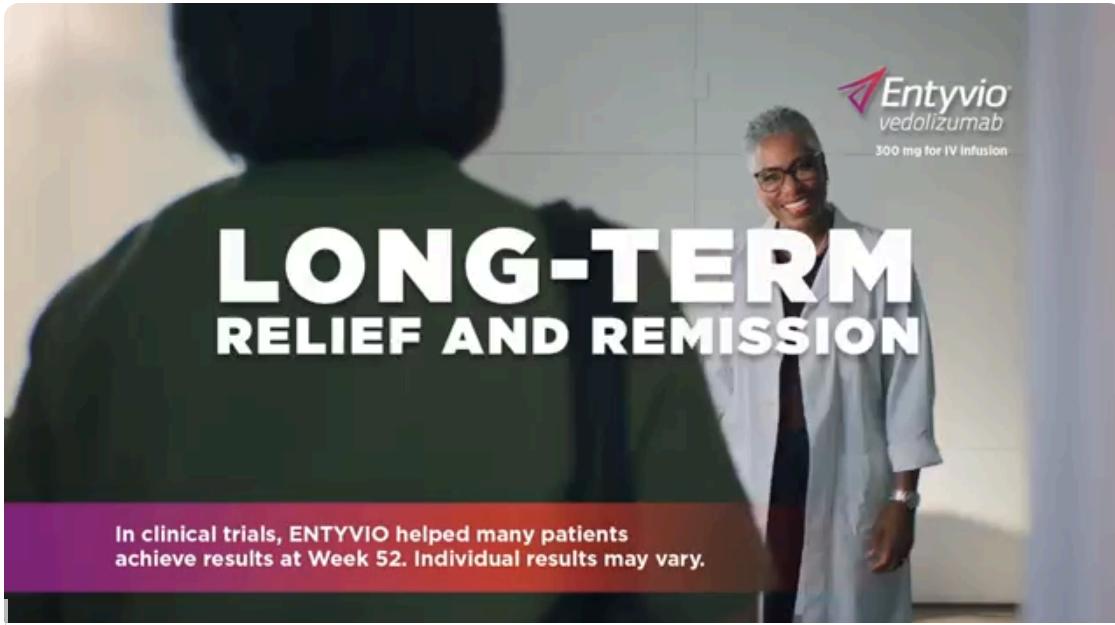

ADVERTISEMENT

---

The Tesla and SpaceX CEO is not an employee of the U.S. DOGE Service or the U.S. DOGE Service Temporary Organization, both of which are separate from the White House Office, according to Fisher.

He is also not U.S. DOGE Service administrator, the position that leads DOGE, as laid out in President Trump’s executive order last month establishing the service. X

ADVERTISEMENT

Fisher compared Musk's role to that of Anita Dunn, who served as a senior adviser to former President Biden.

Sign up for the Morning Report

The latest in politics and policy. Direct to your inbox.

Email address

SUBSCRIBE

By signing up, I agree to the Terms of Use, have reviewed the Privacy Policy, and to receive personalized offers and communications via email, on-site notifications, and targeted advertising using my email address from The Hill, Nexstar Media Inc., and its affiliates

His declaration comes as part of a lawsuit brought by 14 states against Musk, Trump and DOGE last week, arguing that the government role of the world's richest person is unconstitutional because he has not been confirmed by the Senate. X

---

"Mr. Musk's seemingly limitless and unchecked power to strip the government of its workforce and eliminate entire departments with the stroke of a pen or click of a mouse would have been shocking to those who won this country's independence," the states wrote.

"There is no office of the United States, other than the President, with the full power of the Executive Branch, and the sweeping authority now vested in a single unelected and unconfirmed individual is antithetical to the nation's entire constitutional structure," they continued.

The states initially asked the court to bar Musk and the DOGE team from taking a wide range of actions, including making changes to government contracts, regulations, personnel or the disbursement of public funds, as well as receiving access to or altering data systems.

---

CONTENT CONTINUES BELOW SURVEY

What Do You Think?

Loading survey...

Instead, the Trump administration argues the states are “conflating influence and authority,” emphasizing that “an advisor does not become an officer simply because the officer listens to his advice.”

TAGS ANITA DUNN DOGE ELON MUSK

---

Copyright 2024 Nexstar Media Inc. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten, or redistributed.

---

SPONSORED CONTENT

Privacy Policy

Amazon's Worst Nightmare: Thousands Canceling Prime for This Clever Hack

Online Shopping Tools | Sponsored

Learn More

Trade Smarter, Not Harder

TradeStation | Sponsored

Learn More

Trade with Powerful Tools

TradeStation | Sponsored

California: Gov Will Cover Your Cost To Install Solar Panels If You Live In These Zips

California Clean Energy | Sponsored

Learn More

Incredible: The world's toughest smartwatch designed for the military

Indestructible Military Smartwatch | Sponsored

New Electric Cars Come With Tiny Price Tags (Take A Look)

Small EV Cars | Best Searcher | Sponsored

Learn More

